A Publication of New Hope Telephone Cooperative

November Greetings - What a great time to acknowledge our blessings and give expressions of our thankfulness!

To begin, the Co-op is thankful for the safe arrival of a new addition to the family. Brandon Luke Russell was welcomed into this world by parents, Rhonda and Joey, and by big brother Blake on October 2nd. Everyone is doing well and the staff is ready to welcome Rhonda back to work.

Team NHTC agrees that November just wouldn't be November without pausing to be so very thankful for all of our blessings. At the top of the list is this great country and those who are serving and those who have served for our "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness". It is most fitting that Veterans have their own day of honor this month.

I'm proud to live in this great country, but more specifically, I am most proud to live in this region of the country. It is great to live where people are caring and giving in times of need and crisis. I want to thank everyone who has contributed to the Hurricane Relief efforts. I also want to recognize the generosity of those who participated in our community collections last year.

As we go into the holiday season and colder months of the year, we want to make helping our neighbors as easy as coming by our office. We will again be the local drop off point for food, coats and toys. The details for these programs are found at the bottom of this page.

I am leaving you with two very important thoughts:

"It is the greatest of all mistakes to do nothing because you can only do a little. Do what you can."

—Sydney Smith

"As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words, but to live by them."

—John Fitzgerald Kennedy

Try this 'recipe' for spam

New Hope Telephone Cooperative recently received an e-mail from one of our Internet subscribers expressing concern about e-mails received with inappropriate or illicit content. The subscriber wanted to know what NHTC was span ven from ring as condition Rustre doing to prevent this from occurring.

When asked what could be done to alleviate this situation Rusty Bright,

NHTC Network Administrator, said, "We are blocking as many (inappropriate

e-mails) as we can, and we work really hard to update our filters daily but it is not possible to block all of them. We do everything we can to block viruses, spam, Trojans and worms." Bright added that there are several steps consumers can take to eliminate some of the unwanted materials that may appear on their computers. Try the following steps:

- 1. Go to www.nehp.net/spam_filter.htm and increase the strength of the spam filter. The default setting is 5 and increasing the number increases the strength of the filter.
- 2. If you receive any spam, forward it as an attachment to New Hope Telephone at stopspam@nehp.net.

In Outlook Express right click on the email (without opening it) and select the option to forward "as an attachment". If you do not use Outlook Express this must be set up in the 'Options' menu (Tech Support can walk you through this).

- 3. Never open a spam email, just like a virus the sender will know it's been opened
 - 4. Never reply to a spam
- 5. Never use the option to be removed from the spam mailing list

If you are unable to resolve this issue or any other, please contact Tech Support at 723-8940. It is our goal to provide our subscribers with assistance whenever needed.

Bolden received nation's highest honor

In Owens Cross Roads there is a small grave marker bearing the name Paul L. Bolden. While the grave itself is not much different than any other site in

U.S. Army Staff Sergeant Paul Bolden

Bolden was a recipient of the Medal of Honor, the highest award for valor in action against an enemy force which can be bestowed upon an individual serving in the Armed Services of the United States. The Medal is presented by the President of the United States in the name of Congress.

Only 3,442 Americans have been awarded the Medal of Honor. Of those, only 121 survive today.

Bolden was raised in the Hobbs Island area, where he worked the family farm. Following his Army training, he left for Europe in early 1944. His brother recalls the day the news came informing the family of Bolden's injury. "We got a telegram that said he got slightly wounded," recalls Loyd Bolden. "We didn't know he was bad off."

The events which earned Paul Bolden his life-threatening wounds also earned him a soldier's highest commendation. A parade was held in Huntsville in August of 1945 to honor Alabama's hero. "We had a big celebration," says Loyd Bolden. "It was a big day."

Loyd Bolden speculates that his brother, who he described as a nervous and bashful person, likely acted with such heroism because "all his men were pinned down in that cold snow." Like many war heroes Paul Bolden "never did talk about it much."

Paul Bolden returned to Madison County and continued farming. He went to work at Redstone Arsenal in the early 1960's. The war hero died of a brain tumor on May 21, 1979.

Paul Bolden's Medal of Honor Cititation

He voluntarily attacked a formidable enemy strong point in Petit-Coo, Belgium, on 23 December, 1944, when his company was pinned down by extremely heavy automatic and small-arms fire coming from a house 200 yards to the front. Mortar and tank artillery shells pounded the unit, when S/Sqt. Bolden and a comrade, on their own initiative, moved forward into a hail of bullets to eliminate the ever-increasing fire from the German position. Crawling ahead to close with what they knew was a powerfully armed, vastly superior force, the pair reached the house and took up assault positions, S/Sqt. Bolden under a window, his comrade across the street where he could deliver covering fire. In rapid succession, S/Sqt. Bolden hurled a fragmentation grenade and a white phosphorous grenade into the building; and then, fully realizing that he faced tremendous odds, rushed to the door, threw it open and fired into 35 SS troopers who were trying to reorganize themselves after the havoc wrought by the grenades. Twenty Germans died under fire of his submachinegun before he was struck in the shoulder, chest, and stomach by part of a burst which killed his comrade across the street. He withdrew from the house, waiting for the surviving Germans to come out and surrender. When none appeared in the doorway, he summoned his ebbing strength, overcame the extreme pain he suffered and boldly walked back into the house, firing as he went. He had killed the remaining 15 enemy soldiers when his ammunition ran out. S/Sqt. Bolden's heroic advance against great odds, his fearless assault, and his magnificent display of courage in reentering the building where he had been severely wounded cleared the path for his company and insured the success of its mission.

'Sears Home' part of American culture

The Sears catalog is an American icon. Not only did the book usher in the era of home shopping, it also changed the rural landscape by bringing thousands of items as close as the mailbox.

Perhaps the most substantial purchase available from the catalog in the early 1900's was the Sears Modern Home. Between 1908 and 1940, Sears sold more than 100,000 homes across America in 447 different designs.

The company shipped everything needed for a home — from lumber and shingles to door-knobs and nails — by rail. The unique precut, mass-produced approach saved customers money in building material while decreasing construction time by up to 40 percent.

A fine example of the Sears Modern Home program can be found in the Bug's Chapel community. This 'Blue Ribbon' model was built in 1915 by Hugh Craft, a Madison County sheriff's deputy (Craft was killed in the line of duty in 1929). The material arrived at the Hobbs Island railroad depot, where it was loaded onto wagons and moved to the construction site.

The Victorian style home with its expansive porches features four bedrooms, five fireplaces, a kitchen, dining room, parlor and reception hall.

The home was purchased from the Craft family in 1920 by Walter and Della Branum. They lived there until their deaths, whereupon their son Ed and his wife Lillie May became owners of 1990 took their toll, but the house survived. The front door had to be replaced, but the glass was salvaged and used in the new door; the home's other doors are original.

Even the weather vane — and the roof it is perched atop — are from the 1915 construction.

South Hampton Nursing & Rehabilitation Center launched its "Dream Catchers" program by fulfilling Mr. Robert McMurray's dream of riding in a Corvette. Along with the help of the therapy department, the staff of South Hampton Nursing & Rehabilitation Center will continue to fulfill one resident's dream a month! "Our primary goal is to increase the quality of life for all of the residents," stated Lindsay Wilbanks, Director of Social Services. Pictured is McMurray returning from his ride.

Inspiration Corner

Glorious Thanksgiving! Besides opening the door for the Christmas season this is one holiday satan has not yet completely sunk his teeth into, but that's another story. Paul writes to the people of Thessalonica to "Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks". In everything Give Thanks! That's kind of hard to swallow in the midst of all we face in our world today, don't you think? Our mistake in reading this verse is we consider the creature-comforts of this world rather than comforts brought on by having Christ in our heart. You see, giving thanks helps take our focus off worldliness and puts our hearts in line with God. Sure it's ok to give thanks for immaterial things but it's the "why" we give thanks that changes us. For example I give thanks for our great nation and the small towns in which we live. We can't help but be like family and that's God's nature. I do envy Grant, however, for being more outside the reaches of Huntsville than we are. I give thanks for my church, my friends, my family and especially my wife and two daughters who make my life - LIFE. Can such things be "creature comforts"? Sure they can, but for those who understand the real meaning of Thanksgiving, all things that bring joy to life while providing hope in a God who is preparing so much more for us than this world ever can is why we give Thanks in all circumstances. Give it a try. Give thanks to God and look for the real meaning of Thanksgiving in a church near you.

Teacher Talk

This summer at the National Writing Project at Alabama A&M University, teachers gathered to learn more about writing in the classroom and writing for themselves. Wendy Neff, fourth grade teacher at New Hope Elementary was selected to give her teaching demonstration (about using the senses to generate family stories) on visitor's day. Carolyn Creighton, assistant principal at New Hope Elementary, was present on visitor's day and wrote the following piece:

Pine Sol

The senses are a powerful human gift with which we interface with the world. The senses also trigger memories -- the kind of memories that should be recorded as a part of your family's heritage.

Pine Sol -- it has its own distinctive scent. Going into any public restroom where its flavor wafts through the ventilation system to my perennially clogged sinuses NEVER once fails to trigger the memories of summer church camp in Hot Springs, Arkansas! I went every summer from ages 11-17 for a week of lifetime experiences that I can still pull out, look at, turn over, and savor as a molding point of my life.

It WAS church camp, so we had morning Bible studies, devotions before lunch, and nightly a full-fledged gospel "camp meeting" style service, complete with hand-clapping, toe tapping, going to heaven music; happy music. I have never written about church camp before. I don't have to because the Pine Sol holds all those wonderful memories right there in those bottles. Now that I am older, what if that smell no longer brings those precious memories to the surface? Writing them during a National Writing Project's summer institute gives me an opportunity to keep them alive in my legacy. Writing about the memories that

Pine Sol draws to mind fills my day with completeness, joy, and a true sense of who I am.

We didn't just go to church! We made new friends -- lots of new friends. We played games, learned to sing, learned a new craft, and we met boys! All kinds of boys! Cute ones, ugly ones, athletes, musicians, regular boys -- just like the kind of girls we were! I did learn from those camp experiences that girls will write letters for longer blocks of time than boys would; but they too, as I, would stop after a few weeks or months; until late May or early June when the addresses mysteriously reappeared from the recesses of my room. I have fond memories of making friends who lived places like Little Rock, Fordyce, Stuttgart, Beebe, Jonesboro, Clarksville, Pine Bluff, Fort Smith, Camden and other Arkansas cities. I also can still smile at those kids who, during recreation time, would gather together to "call the hogs" as they called it. Those Razorback fans are not ashamed of their university!

Why does Pine Sol awaken those cherished pages of my summer? Because-that's how it smelled when we arrived-agitated anticipation for what would be;
soul renewing contentment for how we left. We cleaned on Fridays, so that scent would be strong on Monday for the next

group of campers. Church camp was very important to me as a youth; a heritage to carry into adulthood, a faith born of a child and used as a foundation for living as a grown up. Church camp established me as a spiritual being.

But then, this writing is about Pine Sol. There are many products on the market for cleaning today--just like the heaven-marketing I see, hear, and am accosted with regularly. But, there is only one Pine Sol--just like there is only one way to get to heaven. I suspect that when I get to heaven, I will be able to watch angels washing down the pearly gates and mopping those golden streets with Pine Sol.

Cook of the Month

Do you know a great local cook? Maybe it's you! We're looking for a few good cooks to be considered for our Cook of the Month feature. We have begun featuring a Cook of the Month in each issue of The Communicator. And we're not just looking for southern fare –gourmet chefs are welcome, too.

To be considered for this feature, please send us four to six recipes, along with the name and contact information for the cook. Feel free to tie recipes to a specific holiday, event or theme. We will feature a Cook of the Month in each issue, so start sending in those recipes! Mail to Maria Goodson at NHTC today!

Note: Submission does not guarantee publication. Please send copies, not originals. Submit only "tried and true" recipes that have been kitchen-tested.

Fall Fun

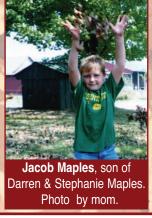

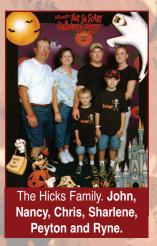

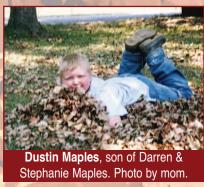

The January photo theme is "Winter Wonderland!" To participate in our Community Photos section, please send your favorite photos, matching the theme, to: NHTC • Attn: Maria Goodson • P.O. Box 452 • New Hope, Alabama 35760. If your entry is selected, you'll see your photo in print.

The deadline for the January entry is November 22nd.

Be sure to include the photographer's name, address and phone number, as well as the name of any people featured in your photos. Do not write on the back of your photos, but rather write your information on a small piece of paper and tape it to the back.

If you would like your photos returned, please include a self-addressed stamped envelope. By submitting your photos: (1) you attest that you are the creator and owner of the photos, (2) you give New Hope Telephone permission to publish your material in The Communicator, (3) you agree to offer said photos without the expectation of payment from New Hope Telephone, and (4) you understand that photos are selected for publication in The Communicator at the sole discretion of New Hope Telephone, and that submission of your photo does not guarantee your photo will appear in the magazine.
